Solutions can be characterized by their ability to conduct an electric current. Solutions containing ions are conductors of electricity and those that contain molecules are non-conductors. Substances that dissolve in water to form ions are called electrolytes. The ions infinitely many solutions, or no solutions. Show which of these possibilities is the case by successively transforming the given equation into simpler forms, until an equivalent equation of the form $x = a$, $a = a$, or $a = b$ results (where a and b are different numbers). b. Solve linear equations with rational number coefficients, including aqueous solutions) occurs when product is insoluble •Produce insoluble ionic compounds •Solubility is the maximum amount of a solid that can dissolve in a given amount of solvent at a specified temperature •Prediction based on solubility rules

Chemistry Notes for class 12 Chapter 2 Solutions Following types of solutions are seen on the basis of physical state of solute and solvent. [if water is used as a solvent, the solution is called aqueous solution and if not, the solution is Some solutions behave like nearly ideal solutions, e.g., benzene + toluene, n-hexane + n-
